

BOARD ACTS TO OPPOSE DRAW- BRIDGE

BELIEVES PROPOSED S. P. BRIDGE WOULD BE A SERIOUS BLOCK TO TRAFFIC ON PENINSULA; WILL VOICE PROTEST TO R. R. COMM.

Whether the board would approve the building of a drawbridge on the P. line at Seventh and Channel streets, San Francisco, was brought up for discussion at Monday's meeting of the county supervisors, and it was decided that it would not do so. Furthermore it voted to instruct County Clerk Elizabeth M. Nash to address a letter to the Railroad Commission protesting the building of the bridge, and appointed Supervisor Thomas L. Hickey a committee of one from the board to appear before the commission when it holds a hearing on the bridge matter January 30th. The bridge is being urged by the Moody estate and the State Board of Harbor Commissioners. The construction of such a bridge is strongly disapproved of by residents of the peninsula who commute into San Francisco, as all main line S. P. trains would be routed over it and there would be much delay of traffic at the bridge.

At this meeting the board heard arguments in the matter of George D. Squires of Woodside, who alleged that Miss Florence Boggs of the County Social Service Commission had made statements that he had starved and ill-treated two boys placed in the care of himself and wife by the boys' mothers. Mr. Squires desired to question Miss Boggs, but as it transpired all statements and allegations in the matter were mere hearsay, the board decided there was no necessity to go deeper in the matter, especially as Squires withdrew his case. It was ordered that Miss Boggs be exonerated as to the charges made.

Mrs. Elsa McGinn, San Mateo city trustee and commissioner of public health of that city, appeared to urge that the board take some action to prevent the sale of liquor near the San Mateo city limits. It was decided to take this matter up later at executive session.

A petition of James Mulryan and other residents of Beresford for the closing of certain streets to public use was laid over until February 6th for further hearing.

The claims of Carl Eisenschmel, $770; E. O. Heinrich, $661.51, and Dr. Ernest A. Vectors, $230, for professional services rendered in the trial of William A. Hightower, were ordered returned to the claimants with the statement that the board considers them excessive, and a request that reductions be made.

A communication was received from the Peninsula Bank of Burlingame, asking that its bid of $1000 for one bond of the Burlingame grammar school district be withdrawn, was presented and on motion of Supervisor Hickey, the request was granted.

A letter was read from the Cope Rand Means Company of San Francisco, asking for prints of plans and estimates of costs for the proposed bridge over the bay at Dumbarton on behalf of the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco. As no plans have been prepared as yet, the clerk was instructed to so write the San Francisco engineers.

A report from William J. Graef of the United States Public Health Service on the squirrel control in San Mateo county during December, 1921, showed that a total of 4230 acres of land were treated with poisoned grain and 233 acres with waste balls.

Several claims were ordered passed for payment on motion of Supervisor Brown, seconded by Supervisor Francis.

A report was made by Supervisor Brown on the claim of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company for telephone charges for a station in Burlingame under the name of Porter E. Lamb, and the clerk was instructed to write the telephone company to remove the telephone in question.

The board adjourned, to meet again Monday, February 6th.

EIGHT-YEAR GIRL KILLED BY AUTO

Shocking Accident Takes Place at San Bruno Monday Afternoon; Girl Struck by Large Car.

"We find that the deceased came to her death by being run over by an automobile driver by Harry A. Cookson, and that the accident could have been avoided had the driver not been exceeding the speed limit of fifteen miles per hour."

Such was the verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of little Dorothy Mathiesen, who was run over and killed Monday afternoon at San Bruno by a large car belonging to R. W. Salisbury of 262 West Santa Inez street, San Mateo. The death of the little girl cast a cloud over the entire community.

The facts concerning the death of the eight-year-old child, as brought out at the coroner's inquest, were substantially as follows: Dorothy left school about 2 o'clock and was on her way home. As she stopped to look in the window of the Peninsula drug store, her mother, Mrs. Herman Mathiesen, who had been awaiting her daughter in Dr. F. H. Smith's home, which is just across the street, called to her. The little girl started to cross the street when the big car bore down upon her. Becoming frightened, the child tried to run back to the sidewalk, but was struck and hurled to the pavement. The car was stopped as quickly as possible and the little form carried into Dr. Smith's office, but life was found to be extinct. At the inquest Dr. Smith testified that fracture of the skull was the cause of death. Although Cookson, the driver, testified that he was not traveling rapidly, it is stated by those who measured the distance that the heavy car slid forty-one feet after the brakes were applied.

Besides the chauffeur, the car contained a Mrs. Jennie Backman, who lives at the Salisbury residence, Mrs. Salisbury and daughters, Peggy and Evelyn Salisbury.

Following the accident the driver of the car was arrested on a charge of manslaughter, but later released on his own recognizance. Tuesday District Attorney Swart requested City Marshal Meehan to make a report on all the facts connected with the case, and if it appears that Cookson was speeding or was criminally negligent, the district attorney declares he will be prosecuted.

The funeral of the little victim of the accident was held from the Suhr & Wieboldt undertaking parlors in San Francisco Thursday afternoon, with many sorrowing friends of the family present. The burial was at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

JOHNSON GOES NORTH TO MEET A WHITE HOPE

Floyd Johnson, the local heavy-weight boxer, and champion of the Pacific Coast, has been matched for a six-round bout with Jack McAuliff at Tacoma, Wash., Thursday night of next week. McAuliff is a newcomer from Detroit, Mich., who has been beating the best men that could be produced to go against him in the Northwest. Johnson and his manager, Alex Greggains, start at once for the scene of the battle, and the result will be awaited with considerable interest by Johnson's local admirers.

AN APPEAL FOR HELP.

Who has a bedstead and bed clothing they can spare? There are two families in town that are in straitened circumstances and badly in need of these articles. One family has two children and needs a single bed with covers, while the other family has five children, at present all sleeping in the same bed, and one of these has the flu. A double bed would be a much appreciated gift to this family. Any person having the articles named to spare will be doing a charitable deed worth while by giving them. Communicate with Miss Michaels, the city and school nurse. Miss Michaels can be reached by telephone at the grammar school each morning, No. 106.

COFFINBERRY RESIGNS AS BANK PRESIDENT

Executive Severs Connection After Twelve Years on Staff.

Last week W. H. Coffinberry resigned as president of the Bank of South San Francisco. Mr. Coffinberry has been connected with this bank for nearly twelve years. During this time the bank has made remarkable progress. The deposits have increased from $142,000 to $1,500,000, and the general business of the institution has grown in the same proportion. During the year 1918 the present magnificent bank building was erected. Besides being a gem of architecture, it is the embodiment of the practical ideas arising from Mr. Coffinberry's many years of experience in banking. As executive of the bank Mr. Coffinberry steadily aimed to make it serviceable to the best interests of South San Francisco and to aid in the city's growth and development. It is understood that he will devote his time largely to his own interests.

During a large portion of the time he has resided here, Mr. Coffinberry has been a member of the executive board of the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company. In this capacity, with his associates, he has helped to promote a cordial relationship between this company and the community.

Mr. Coffinberry will continue to hold his one-fourth interest in the stock of the bank and will be chairman of its board of directors.

I. H. Potter, who has been president of the San Francisco Cattle Loan Company for some months past, has been elected president of the bank.

MRS. G. GAGLIANI GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY AT HER HOME

A delightful surprise party was given Mrs. D. Gagliani at her home on California avenue Wednesday evening, January 11th.

Mrs. Gagliani, who was formerly Miss Pauline Bertucelli, was the recipient of many useful gifts.

After an evening pleasantly spent in games, singing and dancing, refreshments were served. Those who took part in the merriment were: Mrs. Lora Carpenter, Mrs. Ada Stevenson, and Miss Kathryn Freitas of San Francisco, Misses Frances Peirce, Myrtle Vaccari, Marguerite Thomas, Cherrie Mencarini, Marjorie Castro, Emily Mattie, Ambrosia Casagrande, Georgette Quinn, Gilda Varni, and Mrs. Anna Pirsha of this city.

ASSOCIATED AERIES HOLD MEETING AT REDWOOD CITY

The Associated Aeries of San Mateo county held its regular monthly meeting at Redwood City on last Sunday afternoon. Various matters of interest to the order, as also matters of civic interest to the county in general, were discussed.

The Associated Aeries is a San Mateo county product, and is composed of delegates from the various aeries throughout the county. The purpose of the organization is to bring about a closer relationship between the various lodges of Eagles in the county and to secure greater recognition at the hands of the state body at its annual convention. It also proves to be productive of marked increase in membership in the various aeries.

The results at the last state convention, held at Rio Vista, through the united aeries of this county, has set an example that is being emulated by other counties in the state, and exemplifies the old adage that in union there is strength.

The Associated Aeries will meet next at Halfmoon Bay, Sunday, February 19th.

MAN SHOT BY BANDITS IS HOLDING HIS OWN

Edward Hamilton, the man shot by the bandits when the Depot Garage was held up Thursday evening of last week, is still getting along as well as could possibly be expected considering the nature of his wound, according to Dr. Dolley of the South San Francisco Hospital. Hamilton was shot through the abdomen, and for over a week it has been a question as to whether he can recover.

OIL STRIKE AT LA HONDA IS REPORTED

Oil Declared to Be of High Gravity and Struck in Deep Strata.

Much excitement prevails in the La Honda field as a result of the report of high-grade oil having been struck by the La Honda Oil Fields Association Saturday.

The report is to the effect that the strike was made after the drill passed through eight feet of oil sand, and that the oil is of an exceptionally high gravity. The strike was made on the property of the association near Bellvale, and is in a new well where a standard drilling outfit has been at work for several weeks. The depth of the find is said to be about 400 feet, and the water is now being cased off in order that the exact extent of the strike may be determined.

The La Honda Oil Fields Association, acting on the report of such engineers as Alexander D. McDonald, William T. Denton, William J. Hunter, S. D. Bretherton, and others, has been positive that the La Honda field would produce oil and have been expending a large sum of money in drilling test wells. Old holes, which were abandoned several years ago, were first opened up, but a few weeks ago the company moved its rig to another location and started the new well.

The company is headed by Thomas W. Costello of San Francisco, and associated with him are D. L. Gilman, W. J. McMillan and William J. Hunter.

T. J. MAHONEY DIES AT PETALUMA MONDAY

The clipping below from the Petaluma Argus will interest many of the older residents of South San Francisco. The T. J. Mahoney whose death it chronicles was a resident of this city for eleven years. The clipping follows:

Timothy J. Mahoney passed away at his home on Magnolia avenue, north of this city, Monday morning, January 16th, after an illness of over a year, and his death has cast into sadness his relatives and many friends.

Mr. Mahoney came here about three years ago and bought his late home north of town, his son George having resided here for some years. He engaged in ranching up to his last illness. Mr. Mahoney was a splendid citizen and was highly respected by all and was a highly esteemed man, devoted to family and home.

Deceased was born at Sutter creek, Amador county, California, and was aged 60 years, and is survived by his devoted widow, Mrs. Dora L. Mahoney; his children, George E. of Gossage avenue, Joseph F. Mahoney, Mrs. J. E. Woolley, Mrs. Ernest Yates, Mrs. C. H. Woodman and Mrs. F. H. Myles, the latter of South San Francisco. He was for many years an engineer and retired from that calling prior to taking up farming and leading a retired life.

The remains have been removed to the John C. Mount funeral parlors, whence the funeral will be held Thursday under the direction of Mr. Mount, with interment at Cypress Hill.

GREAT FUN PROMISED AT BIG MINSTREL SHOW

The big troupe of performers that will take part in the minstrel show announced for the evening of January 28th is now working diligently, and there is every indication that when the audience assembles in Fraternal Hall on the night indicated they will listen to the best show of its kind that ever appeared here. About forty persons will take part in the big affair, many of them local artists, several of them professional performers from San Francisco. Especial interest attaches to the appearance on the program of Henry Minacelani, the noted local tenor, and to Giannellini brothers, juvenile artists on the cornet and accordion. One of the singers who will take part sang a short selection at the Merchants' Association whist party Wednesday evening, and was roundly applauded.

The town agriculturist is now engaged in raising next year's crops that will make those of the dirt farmer look like a shedding rooster in a jock of peacocks.

MERCHANTS WANT GRAND AVE. WIDENED

Communication to the City Trustees Asks That This Improvement Be Made When Lights Put In.

All members of the board of city trustees were present when the meeting was called to order Monday evening with the exception of Trustee F. A. Cunningham, who is ill.

A communication from the Merchants' Association urged the widening of Grand avenue in this city by setting back the curb on each side of the street eighteen inches. H. A. Cavassa, president of the association, spoke on the subject, saying that the merchants had talked the matter over and thought that, as there seemed a prospect that an electroliner system of street lighting would be installed in the town, it was thought that while the sidewalks were being worked upon it would be a good time to have the street widened slightly. Many of the merchants feel that Grand avenue should be wider to accommodate machines being parked at the curb and passing traffic. It was also represented by Mr. Cavassa that the sidewalk along the business section is not full width in several places, and that this would be a good time to have it made full width.

Another thing the merchants asked in their letter is the graveling of Tanforan lane.

City Attorney McSweeney was instructed to reply to the letter that the improvements suggested would be taken under consideration by the city trustees.

An application was received from the Pal's Club for permission to hold a dance the evening of February 4th until 1 o'clock the next morning. Permission was given only until 12 o'clock.

A letter from the State Compensation Insurance Fund enclosed a check for $50.91 dividend in favor of the city.

Reports were received from the city treasurer and poundmaster.

Two applied for poolroom licenses under the new poolroom ordinance, but as this ordinance is not yet in effect these applications were held over.

C. Pardini, Viette & Thatcher, H. Eglesias, Brochini & Lucchesi and M. Blandini were granted a renewal of soft drink licenses. The application of Ralph Ambrose was held over for the second time. This is for the S. P. Hotel.

The city clerk was instructed to communicate with the Land Company and order the draining of its lot at the northwest corner of Spruce and Railroad avenues and with the officials of the Methodist church for the same purpose regarding the lot at the northwest corner of Maple and Grand avenues.

The city clerk was instructed to communicate with the Fraternal Hall Association and urge the installation of fire escapes on the Fraternal Hall building.

Health Officer Dr. J. C. McGovern reported there had been several complaints about the location of the city pound at the poundmaster's residence, 565 Commercial avenue, and the clerk was instructed to write Poundmaster Ringuet to change the location of the pound.

The matter of the lowering of the Spring Valley water main near Peck's Lots was brought up, it being pointed out that, although the water company had stated some months ago it intended to lower the main shortly, it had never done so. The clerk received orders to write the water company to make the desired alteration as soon as possible.

The board will meet again next Monday evening.

MISS MYRTLE VACCARI GIVES WHIST AND DANCING PARTY

Miss Myrtle Vaccari entertained a number of her friends at her home Monday evening. Whist and dancing were enjoyed, after which refreshments were served. Among those who enjoyed the affair were: Miss Marguerite Thomas, Miss Frances Peirce, Miss Cherrie Mencarini, James McDonald, Victor Lindberg, Harold Magundeson, and Ferdinand Thomas.

CARD PARTY BY MERCHANTS IS SUCCESS

FOUR HUNDRED ATTEND FIRST SOCIAL EVENT HELD BY NEW ORGANIZATION OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO BUSINESS MEN.

"The biggest and most successful card party ever held in South San Francisco," that is the consensus of opinion regarding the whist party given at Metropolitan Hall Wednesday evening by the South San Francisco Merchants' Association. The large hall was crowded to its capacity. Ninety tables were filled with players, and as the thirty members of the association as well as many more did not play, it is certain there were well over 400 people present.

It was a good-natured gathering that assembled for this, the first affair given by the recently formed Merchants' Association. From Daly City and Colma they came, from San Bruno, and other points on the peninsula. In spite of the coldness of the night they came from some points many miles away, and if the weather had been warmer it is believed a larger gathering would have been on hand than could have been taken care of.

The list of prizes, twenty-seven drawn by ticket numbers and sixteen by scores in whist, was the largest ever given at such a function in this region. Altogether the prizes represented a value of over $200, and every prize was donated by a member of the Merchants' Association. As a result of the party, the association starts with a considerable sum of money in its treasury with which to carry on work it has in hand for the benefit of the merchants and of the town. Several of the 425 tickets sold drew prizes that were unclaimed during the evening, and for the benefit of the holders the lucky numbers and the order of the prizes are printed below. The whist prizes were won as follows: First, Louis Verna, score 135, phonograph; second, Maurice Koop, score 314, comforter; third, Jack Callan, 127, beaded purse; fourth, Thomas Hickey, 126, lamp; fifth, Walter Ellis, 126, pair of shoes; sixth, Harlow Dotson, 123, auto tire; seventh, Mrs. A. Shields, 122, side of bacon; eighth, W. W. Brown, 121, ham; ninth, Mrs. M. K. Silvera, 120, manicure set; tenth, Mrs. R. Kay, 120, aluminum kettle; eleventh, John Fischer, 119, chair; twelfth, Mr. Menzie, 119, box cigars; thirteenth, Mrs. J. R. Nelson, 119, sack of coal; fourteenth, D. Farrell, 119, toilet set; fifteenth, Mrs. Jopson, 119, can coffee; sixteenth, Mr. Kepino, 119, can coffee.

The numbers that drew door prizes and their order was as follows: 1, 414; 2, 190; 3, 7; 4, 254; 5, 256; 7, 55; 8, 479; 9, 38; 10, 353; 11, 293; 12, 179; 13, 448; 14, 89; 15, 301; 16, 310; 17, 28; 18, 394; 19, 297; 20, 487; 21, 121; 22, 128; 23, 81; 24, 249; 25, 78; 26, 247; 27, 413. Not all these prizes were claimed, and any person who failed to attend after purchasing a ticket can refer to this list and tell whether he held a lucky number.

The first social affair of the Merchants' Association was crowned with such success that it is probable that more of its kind will be given from time to time.

NEW SCHOOL ENTRANTS NEXT MONDAY ONLY

There is a prospect of many new pupils entering the first grade at the grammar school this term, and it has been decided to accept them for enrollment next Monday only. Instead of Friday and Monday, as announced by Principal Klemeyer last week. Remember that at least one parent should accompany the new pupil to school and should bring the child's birth certificate along. Only those 6 years of age or 6 years by April 23d of this year will be taken in.

DANCE THIS EVENING AT FRATERNAL HALL

Mrs. McKenzie, who has had a class in dancing in this city for some months, has announced a social dance at Fraternal Hall tonight. Many of her pupils and their friends will attend.

OBSTACLES.

Do obstacles, obstructions in our path, discourage us? Perhaps they do, but it would be better for us if we became more determined to overcome them.

It shows our weakness if we are discouraged by obstacles. Obstacles mean little to a strong character. Such a person does not say "I wish I could do it," but "I can do it."

CANDY-PIE SALE SUCCESS.

The candy and pie sales held Friday and Monday were as successful as could be expected. All the candy was sold within fifteen minutes. The proceeds amounted to $3.50. This money will be used to purchase hockey sticks for the team.

MISS HARBER IS NEW DOMESTIC SCIENCE TEACHER

As Miss Pettit has received an appointment at the girls' high school, San Francisco, Miss Harber will continue her work. Miss Harber is a graduate of the University of California, and before coming here taught in the Palo Alto high school. She plans to build up the domestic science department and to interest the students in this line of work. One year of sewing is now being given, but she plans to include millinery in the course next year.

MOUNTAIN VIEW WINS GAME.

South City's unlimited basket-ball team played Mountain View Friday afternoon on the latter's outdoor court. Playing on an outdoor court made the team feel lost. The Mountain View team may well be called "Mountain." It was like giants against nidgets. They outclassed our team all around. Near the end of the game, when the team was accustomed to the court, it made its points. The game ended with the score of 47 to 11 in favor of Mountain View.

Our team was handicapped, as Elmer Vaccari, one of its best players, was not able to play. Now that he is back on the team we may hope for some victories.

HIGH FRESHMEN.

The high freshmen held a class meeting last Monday, at which they elected their officers for the new year. They are as follows: President, Alpheus McGovern; vice-president, Elizabeth Coffinberry; secretary, Elton McGraw; treasurer, Isabel Lynch; boys' manager, Ernest Robinson; girls' manager, Genevieve Schmidt; executive board, Leland Burge and Helen Devlin; Blue and White, Althea Spangler.

There are probably as many modest girls today as ever, but they're not so bold about their modesty.

BEST PEOPLE

By MILDRED WHITE

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

Philip Laidlaw was bitterly disappointed in a woman—he whom women had heretofore failed to interest. Almost, he had given up the shy hope of marriage, and a mate who would satisfy his heart, when he beheld Fay Winters.

Fay had come back to the small town after an absence since young girlhood, and Philip, the admired new attorney, saw her first momentarily, then with a lingering glance as she came through the lighted doorway of the town's best store.

"Perhaps, after all," said his man's hopeful heart, "this happy young woman may not be all that the townspeople say." For her return had long been heralded.

"Fay Winters coming back!" Philip's landlady said. "Well, what possessed her, I wonder, to come to the town that wasn't good enough for her years ago?"

"Fay Winters coming back to Eldridge!" exclaimed Philip's housekeeper. "Well, think of that, after all her travel and college training. Won't be nobody good enough for her to associate with. I remember her; she was nothing but a proud, pretty slip of a girl. Her rich aunt brought Fay up when she was left an orphan; and now she's left her all her money."

So Philip Laidlaw formed his imaginary picture of the newcomer's character. She was a snob, no doubt, and not an acquaintance to be cultivated. But after his second lingering gaze into the young woman's sweetly attractive countenance, Philip had marvelously changed his opinion.

Either the girl had altered with years, or her former neighbors slandered her; and after repeated evenings in Fay's pleasant society, the hope of marriage came jocosely, thrillingly at last to Philip.

Here was the woman of whom he had dreamed, and despaired of finding. And secretly yearning, as months passed by, Philip decided, almost, to make his plea. Then came his great disappointment. In her charm for him, and her graciousness, Philip overlooked the indisputable fact of Fay's aloofness from others—her superiority, so openly deplored.

It was his housekeeper who forced the subject upon him. Her complaints, he discovered, were now echoed on all sides.

"Miss Winters hasn't got any use for Eldridge folks," the old woman told him, "except you, because you've been to college and have money. She don't call on the regular people here, or ask 'em to call on her. Not even Mrs. Dr. Wells, or the banker's wife. And folks do say, they wonder who on earth would be good enough to be a friend of hers."

Brusquely, because his heart was full, Philip put the matter before Fay that very evening. Though he had not openly voiced his love for her, he knew that the knowledge must be hers.

"Why," he regretted, "do you make no friends among the women here, Fay? Is it because—" the bitterness of disappointment brought contempt to his tones—"because there is no one good enough—even among the best people?"

In surprise, she regarded him. When she replied, her voice sounded coldly. "You are right," she agreed, "one should be sure that a real friend is good enough—one of the best people."

Her insinuation angered him; he took his hat and left. It was humiliating that the town folk should be correct in their judgment of the woman he loved—they, the cruelly, critically and slurring. She did not send for him, and because he felt that he owed her an apology which he could not give, Philip Laidlaw stayed—sufferingly—away. His office assistant later volunteered information.

"The dames are chattering again," that young man said. "They are horrified now over Miss Winters' new friendship. Day after day she goes down to May Worth's with her books or her sewing. Day after day the two young women are seen together. Such a contrast, you know, Mr. Laidlaw, so stunningly unexpected. But I don't blame Miss Winters; the accepted set of Eldridge are a narrow, speculating lot; taken together or singly, I know 'em."

Wondering unavoidably, Philip was on his feet.

"Tell me," he demanded, "where does this Worth girl live?"

And the clerk told him. Philip had difficulty finding his way there, the house was so small and unobtrusive; for lack of paint, so hidden by twisted old trees from the roadway. But Fay Winters was with her chosen friend.

The friend sat—a neatly shabby little creature—in an inexpensive gayly covered chair. The cheery light from an open stove shone on the two girls' faces. What had been the topic of their conversation, Philip Laidlaw could not know; but it was evident that neither ungenerous criticism nor unkindly surmise had left that soft glow of sympathy in the young women's eyes or touched their lips with gentleness.

"I want you to meet my friend, May Worth," Fay said proudly. To him, alone, she added, "and she is a good friend—one of the best people."

As Philip Laidlaw clasped the hand of the woman he loved, as his eyes met hers, true understanding came to him. And disappointment vanished forever.

Else What?

A colored man named Sam had worked for his boss about five years, and in that time he had just about run things. His good friend Ben said to him one day: "Now, Sam, you have worked up there and made your boss rich. You ought to ask for more money or else you quit. You just go up there and tell him: 'Look here, boss, you pay me more or else.'" Sam tried his friend's advice while sweeping the next morning. He began, "Say, boss, you'll have to gib me mo' money fo' dis job." "Well, Sam, I'll see about it," replied the boss. "See about nothin', you pay me mo' or else." "Pay more or else? Else what?" The boss' eyes flashed and his tone was sharp. Sam's eyes blinked as he detected his boss' anger, and in a soft voice he replied, "Else I wuck fo' de same money."

HOSPITALITY BUREAU MEETING WITH SUCCESS

Some interesting experiences are reported to the hospitality bureau of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce by those members of the hospitality committee who have already served one of the three half days they have pledged themselves to give annually in welcoming visitors to San Francisco and extending to them such courtesies as a private host does to his guest.

W. J. Barrett of the Barrett & Ross Company, factory distributors, met Sydney Marshall of Vancouver at the Palace Hotel. "We had luncheon at the hotel," writes Mr. Barrett, "motored along the water front, through the commercial and industrial sections, then out to the residential sections, taking in all the fine view points, including Twin Peaks, and then down the peninsula to Palo Alto, where after a nice dinner we regretfully said good-bye."

"It was a wonderful day for me. Mr. Marshall had all the enthusiasm of a child. He will never get over that trip and the fact of being entertained by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce."

"Please let me say: 'Pick out another one or two like him for me and the old geezer with the scythe and the long whiskers will have no terrors for another fifty years.' Hospitality-Greeting."

C. W. Camm of the Martin-Camm Company, food products, writes: "I located W. O. Bradbury of Yakima, but he stated that his business in San Francisco was finished. He said that he much appreciated the action of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce in sending a representative to see him; also that he would report your action to the board of directors of the Yakima Chamber, of which he is a member, as he considered the hospitality extended him in San Francisco a very fine and courteous action."

Paul A. Pfeuger, assistant vice-president of the Humboldt Savings Bank, called on Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Marceau of New York, en route to Honolulu, and as they had no time before taking their steamer to see San Francisco, he sent a basket of fruit and flowers in the name of the bank to their apartment. Another visitor from New York whom he had been asked to meet, he was unable to get in touch with, but left a call for him, because, writes Mr. Pfeuger, "We were anxious to be of some service to him while he was in San Francisco."

Isn't It the Truth?

Perkins and Brown were walking up Main street together.

"There goes an old buddy of mine," Perkins remarked as a man passed.

"Who is he?" asked Brown.

"Bill Bristow—poor old Bill!"

"Why 'poor old Bill'?"

"Well, it's this way," Perkins explained. "When the war broke out I enlisted and Bill got married."

"Yes, go on."

"Well, can't you see? I got a discharge more than two years ago now."

Some Dose.

A professor in a medical school asked a student: "What is a dose of croton oil?" The student replied, "A teaspoonful." The professor said nothing, but looked at his watch. The work of the class went on. Some minutes later the student who had replied attracted the professor's attention and exclaimed: "Oh, professor, I made an error. A dose of croton oil is one drop." The professor quietly looked at his watch and dryly remarked: "Yes, and your patient has been dead just twelve minutes."

About Droughts.

William Allen White, the Kansas editor was talking about droughts. "One summer during a terrible drought," he said, "a tourist was passing through Arizona. He put up one night in a town so dried up that even the trees had yellowed and withered. 'Does it ever rain here?' the tourist said to the landlord of the hot, dusty hole. 'Rain?' said the landlord. 'Why, stranger, there's five-year-old bullfrogs in this here town wot ain't never learned to swim yet.'"

San Francisco, Calif., October 31, 1921.
Homestead Garage, San Mateo, Calif.
Model 47 Oldsmobile, equipped with standard pacemaker body, yesterday ran 1000-mile test on Cotati Speedway. Total elapsed time for 1000 miles, 899 minutes, making over 66 2-3 miles per hour. The trial started at 1:05 a. m., finished at 4:34 p. m. Dense fog encountered from 4 to 6:45 a. m. First 500 miles, average speed, 62 22-100 miles per hour; last 500 miles, 70 4-100 miles per hour. Last lap at rate of 72 miles per hour. Fastest lap, 81 79-100 miles per hour. During the entire 1000 miles the bonnet was never lifted and motor running sweetly and smoothly at the finish. Race officially observed and timed by representatives of San Francisco press.
J. W. LEAVITT & CO.

That the Oldsmobile could make this time proves that it has power and speed. That it could make the 1000 miles without even raising the bonnet proves that it is dependable, reliable and durable.

SENDING OUT ORATORS

San Mateo, Burlingame and Hillsborough, members of the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce (although Hillsborough, the exclusive, is somewhat shy of pulling in harness with the others), are going to get quantities of publicity during the next few months by virtue of a number of silver-tongued orators developed in the San Mateo high school class in oratory. These new speakers are going out into the highways and byways to tell the world what fine places the three cities named are to live in and to locate commercial enterprises in. That is a good idea. Just what amount of eloquence the school training has developed in the gentlemen who have taken the course in speaking The Enterprise does not know, but it is sure they will be able to talk convincingly of the advantages of the region they live in, for each is an enthusiastic booster for the peninsula, and enthusiasm is the parent of eloquence.

Incidentally the developing of public speakers is a movement worth encouraging. Oratory is becoming almost a lost art along with conversation and letter-writing. Time was when the town orator was the most looked-up-to man in every community. In ancient times he was honored as a king among men. He has now been replaced largely by the politician, whose spouting is to real eloquence what "jazz" is to real music.

Here's to the orators of the Three Cities Chamber. May their addresses be productive of worth-while results. And here's to the public speaking class of the San Mateo high school. It is fostering an art that should have an honored place in our scheme of life.

AND OTHERS, TOO

The Hiligut (Wyoming) Homesteader is published forty-two miles from any town or other newspaper. Frontier newspapers such as this render a service to the state which is not fully appreciated.

Editors in these far-scattered towns make a nation such as the United States possible.

Our people from Maine to Washington and from Florida to California are held together under one flag largely by the power of the country press in making neighbors, from the standpoint of information and news, of the most distant sections of the land.

In what other manner could 105,000,000 people, scattered over approximately 3,000,000 square miles, be held so closely together as through the information constantly disseminated by our twenty-odd thousand country newspapers?

The editor of the Homesteader is typical of the rural publisher who is rendering an invaluable service to this country.

He Passed.

A Wall Street man was very keen on having proficient clerks in his employ. Before a clerk could enter his office he was required to pass a written examination on his knowledge of the business.

At an examination one of the questions was "Who formed the first company?"

A certain bright youth was a little puzzled at this, but was not to be floored. He wrote:

"Noah successfully floated a company while the rest of the world was in liquidation."

He passed.

In spite of all those memory courses, the magazines tell about, as many men as ever forget to pay their debts.

You've no business entering the game unless you intend to play it through. For many persons tear up the cards and break up the party when Luck gives them a wallop.

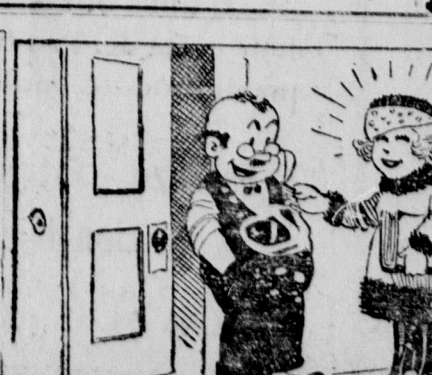

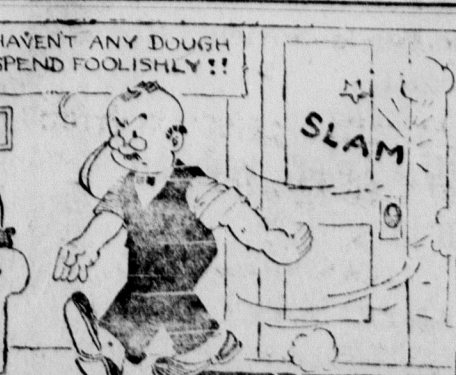

There are two kinds of men—those who think a dinner is a failure if they are not called upon to speak, and those who think it is a failure if they are.

Most people "eat them up" when compliments are offered, but they will never get really fat upon them—only puffed up.

Congratulations and best wishes are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bocci and Mr. and Mrs. Remaldo Lucchetti, who arrived on last Saturday evening from their honeymoon trip through the northern part of the state.

Last Tuesday morning W. E. Williams arrived safely at the home of his son on Bryant street. Mr. Williams will spend several months visiting here with his son, E. C. Williams, and family, also his daughter, Mrs. Minerva W. Beasley.

Miss Mary Goddard resumed her studies on Monday at the Jefferson grammar school, after being confined indoors for a short time after her recent operation, having her tonsils removed.

After the late mass every Sunday morning at Holy Angels' Church, Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, the children are asked to be present in order to prepare for confirmation, which will take place soon after Easter.

Robert Jensen, who was confined at the Wakefield Hospital in San Francisco for a week or so by an operation on his nose, arrived at his home on F street during the middle part of the week, and is reported to be gaining in health nicely.

Tuesday evening, January 10th, several of the elder folks with many of the younger set from this community attended the whist party and social given at Bracken's Hall, Daly City, by the Beaver Club. Every one present enjoyed the evening. F. Volkman of Washington street was one of the lucky prize winners.

Paul Williams, son of E. C. Williams, is receiving congratulations from his numerous friends hereabouts upon graduating from Heald's Business College in San Francisco last Friday. After graduating with very high honors from the Jefferson grammar school in 1918, Paul attended the San Mateo union high school for four terms.

Joseph Reed of Australia arrived safely in San Francisco on the steamer Waihemu, Saturday, January 7th, making a very pleasant trip by way of Sydney, New Zealand, Tahiti, Samoa and Honolulu. In the early hours of Tuesday morning, January 10th, young Reed left on the same steamer for Ocean Falls, Seattle and Vancouver. He is expected in San Francisco within the next two weeks before sailing to his home. Mr. Reed visited over the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. L. Fellman Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. L. Fellman Jr. He is the brother of Mrs. Fellman Jr. (Janet Reed).

COLMA COMMUNITY CENTER.

The Colma Community Center board of directors are planning to add a women's auxiliary to the Colma Community Center. The first meeting to take place will be Friday afternoon, January 27th, at 2 o'clock, at the center building on Dunk street. All the ladies are asked to be present. It is the aim to build an extra room on the C. C. C. building large enough for all functions, especially for boys to have a place for recreation. This thought is meeting with the approval of all. But we must all put our shoulder to the wheel and help with a vim. This property belongs to the people of Colma in charge of the seven directors of the C. C. C., who are planning for the welfare of our young people.

FORESTERS INSTALL.

Tuesday evening, January 10th, Court Colma No. 83, Foresters of America, held its installation of officers for the ensuing term. The following were installed: Chief Ranger, John P. Moresco; sub-chief ranger, Adolph J. Bertini; senior woodward, Edward Bocci; junior woodward, Justin E. Tossaro; financial secretary, Antone Sturla; treasurer, Peter Barsi; recording secretary, Henry E. Fuchs; lecturer, Richard Ennos; senior beadle, Charles Capurro; junior beadle, George Schementi.

DAUGHTER BLESSES HOME.

Congratulations are being received by Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Rovere of Briggs street from their many relatives and friends upon the arrival of a fine big baby daughter during the early hours of Sunday morning, January 9th. Mrs. Rovere (nee Adele Lavagino) is the youngest daughter of Mrs. R. Lavagino of Clara street, and is very popular and well known hereabouts. Mrs. Rovere and daughter are doing very nicely.

DANCE AT CASTLE HALL.

Saturday evening, January 21st, L. Scramaglia will give a dance at Castle Hall. Every one is cordially invited to attend. Music will be furnished by Louis Scramaglia and son, Roy.

SUCCESSFUL WHIST PARTY.

The long-looked-for whist party, that by the Girls' Club of Colma, at the old Jefferson Hall on San Pedro avenue, took place last Saturday evening. The gathering was the largest that ever assembled in the hall. It was a most enjoyable and successful affair, twenty-nine tables being filled. After the whist, refreshments were served, and dancing followed, music being furnished by Julius Shindler. The hall was tastefully decorated in greens and orange, the club colors. The winners were: Mrs. Emma Tiedeman, first; Mrs. George Wright, second; Jack Dennis, third; Mathew Grady, fourth; Mrs. J. C. Witt, fifth; Mrs. J. Gaestel of San Francisco, sixth; Mrs. R. Pavlos of Daly City, seventh; Robert Herringer, eighth; Felix Bortus, ninth; Mrs. Edward J. Mooney of San Francisco, tenth; W. Gelmartin, eleventh, and Charles Laughlin, twelfth. The beautiful luncheon set embroidered by the girls of the club and raffled, was won by Miss Anita LaFrance, a popular member of the club. The Girls' Club of Colma wishes to express its thanks and appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. M. Grady, Mrs. Peter Benassini, M. Jensen, Harry D. Pierce, Cypress Circle No. 14, U. A. O. D., and Olive Grove No. 116, U. A. O. D., for the kindnesses rendered it during the evening.

LADIES' CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

At the Jensen home on F street Tuesday afternoon, January 10th, the Ladies' Home Club of Colma held its first meeting of the new year. Different topics were discussed after the election of officers took place. Mrs. Jensen served light refreshments to all the members in attendance. Those elected and installed for the ensuing term were: Mrs. Minerva W. Beasley, president; Mrs. Clark, vice-president; Mrs. M. M. Jensen, treasurer; Mrs. Katherine Wight, secretary; Mrs. Frederick Volkman, Mrs. Philip Dellar and Mrs. Antone Sturla, trustees; Mrs. Benjamin Greene, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Volkman, sunshine committee; Mrs. Anna Zulk, Mrs. Volkman and Mrs. J. L. Brown, membership committee; Mrs. Edward May, Mrs. Jensen and Mrs. Volkman, entertainment committee. On Tuesday afternoon, January 24th, the Ladies' Home Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Philip Dellar on Bryant street.

OLIVE GROVE ENTERTAINS.

At its meeting in Jefferson Hall last Friday evening, Olive Grove No. 116, U. A. O. D., gave a whist party which was a very successful affair. Twenty-four tables were occupied, and the party lasted until midnight. Refreshments were served to all and dancing took place. Those who were on the committee were Frank Heinze Jr., Leon Fellman Sr., Leo Grazzini, William Pippino, Fred Bauer, Richard Ennos, and Leon Fellman Jr. Cypress Circle No. 14, U. A. O. D., assisted in entertaining and serving. Angelo Moresco won first prize and Mrs. L. Fellman Jr. second.

BRUSCO-ARATA WEDDING.

Miss Lillian Brusco of San Francisco was united in marriage to Angelo Arata of Colma Sunday. Mrs. Arata is very well known here, being a resident for many years and attending the Jefferson grammar school. Mr. and Mrs. Arata have taken up their residence on Werner avenue.

No Evidence.

One afternoon a stranger departed from a train at a hustling twin in the West and headed up the street. Finally he met a man who looked like a native.

"Pardon me," said the stranger, "are you a resident of this town?" "Yes, sir," was the ready rejoinder of the other. "I have been here something like fifty years. What can I do for you?"

"I am looking for a criminal lawyer," responded the stranger. "Have you one here?" "Well," said the native reflectively, "we think we have, but we can't prove it on him."—Washington Herald.

Her Doormat.

She was giving orders at an express rate, for they were married, and he, as a rule one of the most meek and submissive of men, was like the proverbial worm beginning to turn.

"Do you think," he sneered, "that you rule the universe?" "No," she snapped; "but I rule the first letter of it!"

SAN BRUNO

Mrs. Ochs of First Addition has been indisposed during the past week, but at present writing is much better.

A number of San Brunoites went over to South City to attend the grand whist party given by the merchants of South San Francisco Thursday evening.

Schmidt's old meat market is now being completely overhauled, preparatory to its being opened up as a drug store, which will be about the first of March.

Bob Liddle, who was ill last week, was well enough to take the chair at the local homestead meeting of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen last Tuesday evening.

Chief of Police Meehan has given notice that hereafter he will arrest any one breaking the speed limit laws within the corporate limits of the city, and that all such cases will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

W. S. Church, an attorney, who has been living for some years in Huntington Park, died last Sunday night, having been ill since he was attacked by influenza in 1918. Mr. Church was very highly respected by all who knew him and his death is a distinct loss to this community.

Mrs. Justice Hecker of Quality Homestead, San Francisco, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, died last Friday, her funeral, taking place last Monday, being largely attended by members of the order, her relatives and friends. Mrs. Hecker was well known in San Bruno, where she had many friends to whom she endeared herself by her cheerful and happy disposition. Her last public appearance in San Bruno was on the occasion of the Yeomen Jamboree which was staged some months ago, and at which she scored a distinct hit.

CZAR OF SMOKESTACK WORLD

THERE are some smokestacks that are unbelievably big—too big to be true—but the one recently completed for the reduction works of the Anaconda Copper Mining company at Anaconda, Montana, sets up a new world record.

The concrete base on which this gigantic structure stands required 118 cars of crushed rock, 50 cars of sand and 20,890 sacks of cement to complete and weighs approximately 9,250 tons.

The stack proper is constructed of specially shaped blocks or bricks about two and one-half times the size of the ordinary brick and it took 2,464,672 of these larger units to complete the job.

To make the mortar necessary to lay these bricks required 77 cars of sand, 37 cars of fire clay and 41,350 sacks of cement. The estimated weight of the brick work is 23,810 tons.

The exterior diameter of this smoke-and-gas elevator is 86 feet at the base, while the interior diameter at the top tapers down to 60 feet. The wall is 22 inches thick at the top. The maximum height of the stack and its base is 585 feet 1 1/4 inches.

Smokestacks of extreme size are desirable and in fact necessary, in connection with certain classes of mining operations, to prevent the destruction of vegetation by the extensive quantities of strong and poisonous fumes and gases which result from the reducing operations.

His Reasonable Request.

Two men were sentenced by a self-appointed court to be hanged for horse stealing. The place selected for the execution was the middle of a bridge spanning a river.

The first noose was tied insecurely and the prisoner dropped into the river, swam ashore and escaped.

As the second rope was being adjusted the remaining culprit drawled out: "Say, fellows, make sure o' the knot this time. I can't swim."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

MILLBRAE AND LOMITA PARK

Mrs. Gilbert has moved to Oakland for the winter.

Jim Reynolds is confined to his home with rheumatism.

Lucile Gatin of Millbrae spent the week-end with Alice Albrecht.

Wednesday Mrs. Graves of Redwood City called on the Lomita Park school teachers.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Yale of Madrid, Spain, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Collings Sunday.

Monday Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Taylor of Millbrae entertained at dinner Mr. and Mrs. Gatin and Lucile Gatin.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smyth of Point Richmond, former residents of Lomita Park, visited Mr. and Mrs. Eddy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cook of Fruitvale and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Abbott of San Francisco were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Baumgartner.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Budgren and Mr. Dodge of San Francisco were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gatin at Millbrae.

The people of Lomita Park wish to extend their deep sympathy to the bereaved parents of little Dolly Mathiesen.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Canning had as dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cove, Grace Cove, Miss Ella L. Smith and Miss Lewis.

R. L. Birket started Tuesday morning on a three months' business trip to New York. He will travel by train to New Orleans and the remainder of the distance by water.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Baumgartner gave an enjoyable dance and card party to twenty of their friends. Mrs. Baumgartner won the ladies' first prize and Mr. Cook the gentlemen's first prize.

Mr. Spotswood has received the news of the death of his aunt, Elizabeth Spotswood, at Pittsburg, Va. Although she was 82 years old she was remarkably strong, both in mind and body, to within a few days of her death.

Friday afternoon, January 20th, a branch of the county library will be opened in the basement of the Lomita Park school house, with Mrs. Nellie Hunter as librarian. A comfortable room has been fitted up for the library.

The Vicar's Blunder.

A visiting Britisher tells of a certain vicar who had long been eager to see an extension of the parish burying ground. At last his wish was gratified. Soon after the opening he felt called upon to speak a few words and it will be open every Tuesday and Friday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock.

Don't forget the whist party at Lomita Park school house January 21st, given by the Development Association. Valuable prizes will be given, consisting of two picnic hams, a fifty-pound sack of flour, a $2 grocery order and other articles. There will be music for dancing and other attractions.

The Parent-Teachers' Association will hold a food sale Friday, January 25th, from 2 until 5 o'clock, in the basement of the school house. No effort will be spared to have a variety of delicious home-cooked food and fresh vegetables on sale. Playground equipment for the Lomita Park school will be purchased with the proceeds of the sale.

The Lomita Park school is one of two schools in the county that is carrying out the Red Cross health program. Next week during the morning recess the underweight children will be given milk and crackers for the small sum of 4 cents per day. The Parent-Teachers' Association will bear the expense of starting the work and later it will be self-supporting.

The regular monthly whist and dance party was given at Millbrae school house Saturday evening under the auspices of the Mothers' Club. The affair was a great success and all had a jolly time. Mr. Siebenger of Lomita Park won the first prize. Mrs. Redding, Mrs. Garthin and Mr. McCarthy made the same score, so each was awarded a second prize, and Harry Miller won the door prize.

Every Sunday afternoon the tennis court on San Felipe avenue is growing in popularity with residents of San Bruno as well as those of Lomita Park. It is such a delightful game for adults as well as the younger people that we hope that every one who enjoys the sport will endeavor to have several new courts equipped in the near future. Mr. Reid is donating his services to build a backstop.

Residents of Lomita Park regret to learn that Mrs. Collings, principal of the local school, has sent her resignation to the trustees, to take effect February 1st. Mrs. Collings has built the school up to its present high standard and is well liked by both parents and pupils. Dr. Collings is suffering from asthma and finds this altitude very trying, so Mrs. Collings has decided to go with him to the high mountains of Plumas county, where he hopes his health will steadily improve.

of condolence to a widower who was placing a tribute of flowers.

"Good afternoon, my dear sir," said the vicar, approaching breezily, "good afternoon!" Then gazing around in a contented way, "Our new cemetery," he continued, "seems to be filling up nicely."—Washington Herald.

Persia of Today

Young Persia.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Unlike Babylonia, Assyria and Chaldea, which existed little longer than during their periods of great power, Persia, once the peer of any of them, has maintained its entity through an ebb and flow of fortune, down to the present day. And now the World War may be said to have caused the "rediscovery" of this historic country, though its recent alignment with Soviet Russia holds out possibilities that it may not receive from the Western world the rejuvenation that was promised.

Darius would fail to recognize as his mighty empire the narrow limits of modern Iran, its borders now far withdrawn from the waters of the Oxus and the Indus, from the shores of the Mediterranean and the widespread Mesopotamian plains; but the nucleus still is there in territory, race, language and customs.

Persia of today includes within a territory still three times the size of France, ancient Media, mountainous Parthia and the province of Fars, whence sprang her first great dynasty. Such monuments to the glory of the great kings as the ruined capitals of Susa, Persepolis and Ekbatana still stand on Persian soil.

The majority of the present inhabitants, although tinged with the blood of Greek, Arab, Turk and Mongol conquerors, are the lineal descendants of the original Iranian, or Aryan, population, and speak a language which has for its basic element the ancient Persian tongue.

Sultan Ahmed Shah, the one hundred fifty-sixth "king of kings," sits on the tottering Persian throne, while the future of his kingdom rests in the hands of outside powers.

Vast Desert Plateau With Oases.

Modern Persia, with the exception of the prosperous northwest province of Turkish-speaking Azerbaijan and the semi-tropical region between the Elburz mountains and the Caspian sea, can be characterized as a vast, mountain-ribbed desert plateau, studded here and there with oases which most frequently form ribbons of fertile green fringing the desert at the base of sterile mountain slopes from whose snow-clad summits comes the life-giving moisture.

The encircling mountain walls shut out the rain from the central table land. Rivers with sources but no mouths flow half the year and lose themselves in the parched desert wastes.

The density of population is less than that of Texas, and more than half the country is an uninhabited Sahara, some of it unexplored. Much of the remainder is suitable only for sheep-grazing part of the year, thus forcing upon a fourth of her ten million people a semi-nomadic existence between the high, well-watered mountain valleys in the summer and the warm plains in the brief winter season.

Some of these tribes, like the Kurds, rarely leave their mountain homes, where they exist independently of central government control. Others, like the Ghazis and Bakhtiaris, sometimes by coercion and sometimes through necessity of political alliance, are vassals of the state, although they pay allegiance only to their chiefs, who arrange with royal authority for their followers the matters of taxes and military service.

Cities are naturally few and small, there being but two or three of more than 100,000 inhabitants. The lower mountain valleys and the oases are the centers for both town and agricultural population, and the wonderful fertility of these scattered areas, snatched from the blighting grasp of the desert, forms the basis for the startling contrasts in the climate of this unusual country.

Water is the chief concern of the Persian peasant. Wherever he can divert the flow of a mountain stream or build a crude canal from a well or spring, a small portion of the desert becomes a paradise and he propers. Certain of these regions are said to be among the most fertile in the world, producing in abundance not only the finest of wheat and barley, but grapes, apricots, peaches, nectarines, pomegranates, figs and melons which are unsurpassed among the fruits of the temperate zone. Cotton and tobacco thrive, and roses, as well as other flowers, gloriously deserve the frequent association of their names with that of Persia.

New Has Chance to Develop.

The day is at hand as one of the by-products of the war, when Persia has the opportunity to begin to learn from British experts, not only how to reclaim more desert land by building better aqueducts and by throwing barrages across mountain gorges to store the surplus of the spring freshets, but how to establish closer communication with the outside world and to develop her great potential resources.

Lacking in the energy, initiative and co-operative spirit necessary to develop their country themselves, the Persians have suffered from the jealous rivalry of their neighbors, and from a seclusion forced by nature, but belied by their central geographical location, in all the recent history-making disturbances in the Near and Middle East.

In spite of her position as a veritable Asiatic Belgium, Persia is strangely cut off from world intercourse by those same natural barriers which so affect her climate. At the opening of this century not a single highway suitable for wheeled conveyances pierced the mountains to the plateau. A few foreign officials and infrequent venturesome travelers made their toilsome way by caravan over tortuous passes to the Persian capital or to other Persian cities, and the Persians themselves for the most part stayed at home. But about 1900 a government-subsidized Russian company opened a post road, as a military-commercial venture, which climbed from the Persian port of Enzeli, on the Caspian sea, to the capital city, Teheran.

Five years ago three or four post-carriage routes and a narrow-gauge railway running five and a half miles from Teheran to a suburban shrine were the only competitors of the picturesque but slow-moving caravan.

Teheran's Fine Location.

No one knows how long there has been a city where the present capital of Persia stands. It has not always been called Teheran, nor has it always been in the same spot; but a city has existed in the locality as far back as Persian history reaches. Such a suitable site could hardly be overlooked. It is at an altitude of nearly 4,000 feet, at the foot of towering mountains, at the junction of three great Asiatic caravan routes, near mountain passes, and beside an ample supply of water. Favored in these ways, it has accumulated a population of more than 300,000 since the beginning of the nineteenth century.

The latitude is that of Cape Hatteras. The three summer months are exceedingly hot and dry, but if one wishes the luxury of a summer resort it is at his door.

Although occupying an ancient site, Teheran is a modern city. It has been the capital of Persia only a little more than a century, and has been an important metropolis for a much shorter time than that.

In journeying to Teheran from the Caspian sea, so sudden is the transition from desert to city that before one realizes that the journey is at an end he finds himself clattering across the stone causeway over the most toward the most surprising of gateways, a great multicolored facade overlaid with a gay mosaic of glistening tiles and topped with numerous minarets ornamented in the same fashion.

Teheran is one of those numerous cities between the Near and the Far East which calls for a modification of Kipling's oft-quoted line; for here East and West have met, but have not mixed.

PRACTICAL RECIPES

MAKE CUSTARDS AND WHIP WHEN EGGS ARE PLENTIFUL

In early spring and summer when eggs are plentiful and cheap, the thrifty among the housekeepers utilize plenty of them for desserts. When this is done, the rest of the meal does not need to be quite so "hearty."

The following recipes are recommended by food specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture:

Soft Custard

- 1 cup milk.
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.
- 1 egg.
- 2 tablespoons sugar.
- 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Heat the milk in a double boiler. Mix the eggs in a bowl with the sugar and salt. Add hot milk slowly, stirring, and return mixture to the double boiler. Cook until custard will coat a silver spoon. Strain and serve. If the custard curdles, set the pan into cold water and beat the custard 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Steamed or Baked Custard

- 1 pint milk.
- 2 eggs.
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon.
- 1/2 cup sugar.

Mix eggs as for soft custard. Strain into custard cups and steam until firm over hot water, which is boiling gently. To bake, strain the custard into cups and place in a pan of warm water. Bake in a moderate oven until the custard is firm. To test a steamed or baked custard, slip a knife blade to the bottom of the cup in the center of the custard and draw out without turning. If the knife is not coated the custard has cooked enough. Grate until smooth.

the nutmeg over the surface and cool before serving.

Floating Island

- 1 quart milk.
- 1/2 teaspoon salt.
- 1/2 cup sugar.

- 5 eggs (yolks).
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla.

Prepare as a soft custard. The whites should be beaten light and two tablespoons powdered sugar added for the meringue. When the custard is cool it may be poured into sauce dishes and the meringue dropped in large spoonfuls into it.

Custard Pudding

- 1/2 cup pearl tapioca or rice.
- 2 eggs (yolks).
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.
- 1/2 cup sugar.
- 2 cups milk.
- 2 eggs (whites).
- 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Soak the tapioca in enough cold water to cover it until it absorbs the water. Add the milk and cook in a double boiler until the tapioca is soft and transparent. Combine the yolks of eggs with sugar and salt and add to the mixture in the double boiler. Cook until it thickens. Add stiffly beaten whites and flavoring, and when cold serve. Rice must be cooked in boiling water until soft.

Apple Whip

- 2 cups apple sauce.
- 3 eggs (whites).
- Cream for serving.

Cook six or eight medium-sized tart apples until soft in just enough water to keep them from burning. Add syrup to sweeten sufficiently and one-eighth teaspoon grated nutmeg. Cool. Press the apple sauce through a strainer and add to it the stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Beat until light and foamy. Pile onto saucers and serve with fresh cream or a custard sauce made of the egg yolks. This sauce may be prepared by the same method as for soft custard, omitting the whites of eggs. Canned fruit, such as peaches, figs, cherries, or guava may be substituted in the same proportion for the apples.

Irate Golfer—You must take your children away from here, madam—this is not place for them. Mother—Now don't worry—they can 'ear nothin' new—their father was a sergeant-major, 'e was.—London Opinion.

HEALTH NOTES GIVEN BY SOUTHERN PACIFIC DOCTOR

"Hints on Eating" is the title of an interesting little pamphlet being issued to Southern Pacific employees by Dr. G. R. Carson of the company's hospital department, at the general offices in San Francisco.

The leaflet, which contains many pointed but practical suggestions, reads as follows:

No one can have health who eats too much.

No one can have health who eats too often.

No one can have health who eats when tired, hurried, worried, anxious or excited.

No one can have health who rises late, gulps down a hearty breakfast, swallows a sandwich and a glass of milk for lunch, and tops off the whole performance with a late dinner.

When you have eaten, do not wonder if the food will agree with you.

When you begin to wonder, trouble begins.

If you fear it, do not eat it.

If you eat it, do not fear it.

Be cheerful at your meals.

A sour countenance will give you a sour stomach.

TRUCKEE IS NOW MECCA FOR OUTING PARTIES

This pioneer California town situated in a pass near the top of the high Sierra, has become a famous resort for California residents seeking the thrill of winter sports, little known to most sections of the state.

Every week-end the mountainsides hereabouts are dotted with skiers and toboggan parties and the streets, upon which front many old-time buildings hinting of "wild and woolly" days gone by, are colorful with the gay sports attire of hundreds of visitors.

The big California motion picture companies are taking advantage of the heavy snows and the rugged character of the region to film stories, the scenes of which are laid in the Canadian Northwest or Alaska.

Truckee is near Lake Tahoe and but a dozen miles from the historic Donner Lake, named for the party of argonauts which met a tragic death while attempting to cross the Sierra Nevada mountains into California.

Who remembers when the village pride was the "silver cornet band?"

HOW JOLLY JOE HELPED.

(By Auntie Ruth.)

Once upon a time there was a naughty elf who thought he would take a stroll and see if he could not find a chance to make trouble for somebody. He could not bear to see people happy. He was always growling and grumping. That is how he got his name.

He didn't have far to go until he saw a little boy romping with a bright new cart and a dog. It was Teddie. That was his birthday and the red cart was his favorite gift. He and Rover were having a fine time.

"Ha!" grinned Growly Grump wickedly. "At the rate they're whizzing around something's bound to happen and then—I'll get my chance." So he sneaked along under the bushes toward the little boy.

Now it so happened that another elf, Jolly Joe, was out that morning, too, but on a very different errand. He made it his business in life to make others happy, so he was always merry and glad himself, and went skipping about, here, there and everywhere, helping to make people joke, laugh and have a good time.

Of course, everybody loved Jolly Joe and enjoyed having him around, so he was a very busy little elf. One of his hardest tasks was to keep an eye on old Growly Grump and chase him away from girls and boys, or their fun would be sure to be spoiled.

Very soon Jolly Joe's sharp, twinkling eyes spied the bad elf's crouching form sneaking along under the rose bushes. Laughing softly he followed, stepping on fallen rose petals to keep Growly Grump from hearing him. Right well did he know that trouble was ahead for Teddie unless help came; so Jolly Joe crept close and waited, smiling to himself at the joke he was going to play on his old enemy.

Soon Teddie thought it would be fun to hitch Rover to his cart. It wasn't much fun for the dog, but the good-natured old fellow plodded along very patiently, hauling sticks and stones for a bridge Teddie was building. When Growly Grump saw the dog being hitched up, he edged a little closer growling, "Gr-r-r! My chance is coming!" Jolly Joe quietly climbed up into a great thorny rose bush and crept out on a limb until he hung right over the naughty elf's head. Hiding himself behind a leaf, he winked at a butterfly that alighted near and whispered laughingly to her, "Wait a minute if you want to see something funny."

"Very well, Jolly Joe, but wait. Let me tell the others so they can enjoy the joke, too." So away fluttered Madame Butterfly, and soon returned with a flock of gauzy-winged friends who silently settled upon satiny roses and watched expectantly.

Suddenly Rover saw a stray cat trying to sneak into the chicken yard. With a loud "Bow-wow!" away he went, forgetting all about the cart. Wasn't it a watchdog's duty to protect those baby chicks? Anyhow, he was tired of that game. It was more fun to chase cats.

Well, in just about two minutes that pretty, new cart was the sorriest looking thing you ever saw. The tongue was broken smack in two, one wheel was lost and the seat hanging by a nail. Teddie flung himself down and howled.

"Ha! I thought so! Now!" and Growly Grump crouched for a spring, but before he could move some one poked him in the ribs.

"You're not a bit ticklish, are you?" laughed a teasing voice, and there stood Jolly Joe between him and Teddie.

"No, I'm not!" snarled Growly Grump, doubling his fists threateningly. "You just get right away from here. Don't you see that broken cart? That little boy has a right to feel badly, and I'm going to sneak into his heart and make him cry and grouch and whine until his mother will be about distracted. I don't like her anyway, for she's always trying to drive me away, but I'll get him this time. Get out of my way!"

Then he lunged at Jolly Joe as if to knock him down when—what do you think? That naughty elf suddenly found himself dangling by his coat-tails which Jolly Joe had slyly fastened to a strong thorn.

"Ha! Ha!" teased that laughing elf. "You stay—right—there! I'm headed for Teddie-boy's heart myself!" and away he flew, while overhead the butterflies clapped their pretty wings and fluttered in glee.

And there hung old Growly Grump, gouching away like everything. Finally he managed to wriggle himself out of his coat and fell down kerplunk! right on his nose, which only added to his anger. Picking himself up he hurled his weight against the door of Teddie's heart, which the little boy had left open, just a trifle.

Such a fight as went on in that little boy's heart! Teddie's mother, who was watching her little boy's face, hardly knew which was going to win. She fairly held her breath, she did so hope that Jolly Joe would be the victor and drive old Growly Grump out of Teddie's heart and shut and lock the door against him.

"Guess old Growly Grump must be pounding the life out of poor little Jolly Joe," she said, sadly. "And if he is killed, how can any one ever laugh again?"

Teddie's cries were not quite so loud. Pretty soon the corners of a small red mouth began to twitch, then turned right up so suddenly that a big tear got caught in a dimple and was so scared it could hardly get out. Then mother smiled, for she saw Jolly Joe looking right out of her little son's eyes, and she knew old Growly Grump was done for that time.

"Mother, I just 'membered how dreadful it would be to have to cry forever—n-ever. I'd rather laugh most times, so I don't want Jolly Joe to get killed. And anyhow, he just whispered in my heart about my other birthday gift—my box of tools—at this would be a fine chance to try 'em out a-ixin' my cart," said Teddie. "And oh, goody! Here's the wheel! Now you just watch me mend things all fine and dandy."

Then oh! such a pounding and sawing and whistling! Why, it was the most fun playing with the sharp little saw, the hard, smooth hammer and shining nails. Soon the cart was all spick-span again, and Jolly Joe, seeing the little boy happy once more, went on his way to help somebody else.

You see, Teddie mother had told her little son about these two elves long ago, and they found Jolly Joe such a cheery chum they wanted all little people to know about him. And now that you know, you'll tell others, won't you, and help make everybody happier?

A Comparison.

"A feller came to town tother day and went to peddling around some of the meanest licker I ever poured into my head," related a resident of Tumlinville, Ark. "That night a passel of gents took him out and whipped him with hickory withes."

"Hurt him much?" asked an acquaintance from out on Fiddle Creek. "I reckon so. "Tennyrate, when it was over he said he'd took one of them there chiropractic treatments once on a time, and b'dogged if he wouldn't just about as soon take another as to go through a whipping like that ag'in."—Harrisburg (Pa.) ### "MAKE IT SNAPPY"

IS APPLIED TO HABITS

THAT joyousness which is the general characteristic of sports clothes is widening its sphere of influence to include almost everything made for outdoor wear. It finds an expression in riding togs and a survey of those made for southern tourists impresses one with their crisp jauntness. "Make it snappy"—but not bizarre, appears to be the rule for all sorts of sports clothes in the new showings. As these are presented at this season for the benefit of those fortunate and discriminating people who anticipate spring by going to meet it, it may be inferred that these styles are correct and to be worn with assurance anywhere.

There is sufficient variety in habits to give them interest and not enough to be confusing. No deviation from correctness in every detail of riding habits is excused—from head to foot they must conform to fashion's edicts. But there is a difference in styles. One may choose skirted suits for side-saddle riding, with the skirts buttoned up at one side, but the choice nearly always falls upon the paddock suit, made for cross-saddle riding. The model pictured here is of this variety and the vogue for black and white is cleverly expressed in it. It has breeches and vest in sparkling black and white check and coat of black broadcloth.

Responsibility does not end with the selection of the suit and the hat. Shoes, gloves and neck dress give opportunity for a nice discrimination. With the paddock suit, a felt hat, more or less soft, is worn and either riding boots or puttees with shoes. A tailored waist with turnover collar, worn with a snappy tie, or a high stock, takes care of the neck dress and heavy street gloves provide for the hands.

NOTIZIE DALLA CONTEA IN ITALIANO.

I SUPERVISORS PROTESTANO CONTRO IL PROPOSTO PONTE

Il concilio dei supervisors alla riunione di Lunedi' protestò contro la proposta costruzione del ponte attraverso la baia fra la Settima e Channel in San Francisco. Le tre Camere di Commercio ed i supervisors obiettarono questa costruzione poiché ritarderebbe i treni della linea della S. P. sui quali molti abitanti della penisola viaggiano giornalmente.

Alla riunione di Lunedi' la Signora Elsa McGinn di San Mateo pregò il concilio di voler far terminare la vendita dei liquori vicino ai limiti della città di San Mateo. Fu deciso di rimettere questa ad una sessione successiva.

La Cope Rand Means Company di San Francisco scrisse per domandare i piani di una estimazione sul ponte di Dumbarton, ma non essendo questi ancor fatti lo scrivano fu incaricato di rimanderli cio' noto.

Il concilio si riunirà di nuovo il 6 Febbraio.

T. J. MAHONEY MUORE.

T. J. Mahoney, residente di South San Francisco da circa undici anni, morì a Petaluma Martedi' scorso dopo quasi un anno di malattia.

SCOPERTA DI CAMPI PRETOLIFORI A LA HONDA

Considerevole eccitamento è stato causato negli ultimi giorni da una notizia che un grande deposito di olio crudo di alta gravità sarebbe stato scoperto nei campi di La Honda.

La scoperta fu fatta Sabato scorso. Una compagnia stava cercando in quei luoghi da diversi mesi.

BAMBINA DI OTTO ANNI UCCISA DA UNA AUTOMOBILE

La piccola Dorotea Mathiesen di otto anni, figlia del Signor e Signora Herman Mathiesen di San Bruno, fu uccisa Martedi' nel pomeriggio, quando rimase investita da una grande automobile guidata da Harry Cookson, chauffeur per il Signor e Signora R. W. Salisbury di San Mateo. Dopo l'accidente Cookson fu arres-tato ed accusato di uccisione, ma venne poi rilasciato. La giuria del coroner dichiarò nel verdetto che la colpa fu del Cookson. La piccola fanciulla tornava a casa dalla scuola e cercava in quel momento di attraversare la strada e raggiungere la sua mamma dalla parte opposta.

I TRUSTEES DELLA CITTA' RIUNITI IN SESSIONE REGOLARE

Alla riunione dei trustees della città di Lunedi' sera, fu letta una comunicazione dalla Associazione dei Mercati, urgendo l'allargamento di Grand avenue. La lettera pure chiedeva la costruzione di marciapiedi di piena larghezza in quei posti della sezione commerciale dove questi non raggiungono la dovuta larghezza, e chiedeva per il miglioramento del passo di Tanforan.

I trustees decisero di prendere queste quistioni sotto discussione.

A. C. Pardini, Viette e Thatcher, Brochini e Lucchesi, e M. Blandini fu dato licenza per la vendita di bibite leggere, mentre l'applicazione di Ralph Ambrose fu ritenuta per un'altra settimana.

Il city clerk fu incaricato di scrivere al Land Company ed alla Methodist Church per urgire lo scolo di due lotti appartenenti a questi, e di chiedere pure al Fraternal Hall Association la costruzione nel suo edificio, di una via d'uscita in caso di fuoco.

Il concilio si riunirà di nuovo Lunedi' prossimo.

Pa and the Boy.

Thoughts of Appearances.

He turned solicitously from the wheel. "Don't you feel a little chilly?" he tenderly inquired. "Don't you think you'd better have something around you?" "Well," she replied, "let's wait till we get a little farther out in the country."
